

Tue, Apr 14 at 8:44 PM I live in Sydney, Australia. Are there any light side jobs I can do from home?

There is quite a wide variety of side jobs you can do from home in Sydney. The important thing is to consider time, initial costs, and sustainability together. Let me list the ones that are realistically easy to start with.

1. Online-based (Almost no initial costs) ÿ Freelance work: Translation (KoreaÿEnglish), Document creation / Report organization (Experience with NDIS is a strong point), Data entry platform:

Upwork
Fiverr

Pros: Can start immediately
Cons: Low unit price at the beginning

2. Korean Language-Related Side Hustles (Especially Advantageous in Sydney) ÿ Korean Tutoring / Online Classes Teaching Korean via Zoom

3. Small-scale Online Sales ÿ Second-hand/Resale or Small Quantity Sales of Korean Products (Snacks, Stationery, etc.) Kids' Supplies / Church-related Items (Seems like you already have experience)

platform:

eBay
Facebook Marketplace

Realistically, the type that generates "steady" profit

ÿ 4. Content Creation (Time Investment Type) ÿ Blog / Social Media / YouTube Sydney Life NDIS / Medical Information (Highly Recommended as This is a Niche) Korea-Australia Comparison Content

Okay. I will create a Support Letter template for NDIS (for professionals) that you can use immediately in the field. It is written from an orthotist/therapist's perspective, so it is easy to modify and use as is.

NDIS Support Letter Template (Orthotic / Clinical)

[Provider Letterhead]

Date: [DD/MM/YYYY]

Re: NDIS Support Request – [Participant Full Name]

NDIS Number: [XXXXXXXXXX]

Date of Birth: [DD/MM/YYYY]

1. Introduction

I am writing in my capacity as a [Your Role – e.g., Orthotist] involved in the clinical management of [Participant Name]. This letter is to support the request for funding of [Requested Support – e.g., Bilateral Solid Ankle Foot Orthoses (SAFOs)] under the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS).

2. Background and Diagnosis

[Participant Name] has a diagnosis of [Diagnosis – e.g., Cerebral Palsy], which results in functional limitations including:

Machine Translated by Google

- Reduced balance and postural stability
- Altered gait pattern
- Muscle weakness and/or spasticity
- Increased risk of falls

These impairments significantly impact their ability to safely mobilise and participate in daily activities.

3. Current Functional Presentation

On recent clinical review dated [DD/MM/YYYY], the following was observed:

[e.g., Reduced ankle stability bilaterally]
[e.g., Excessive hip and knee flexion during swing phase for foot clearance]
[e.g., Left ankle plantarflexion affecting initial contact]

As a result, [Participant Name] demonstrates inefficient gait, increased energy expenditure, and reduced safety during ambulation.

4. Clinical Need and Justification

Due to the above findings, [Participant Name] requires [Requested Support – e.g., Bilateral SAFOs] to:

- Improve ankle and foot alignment
- Enhance stability during stance phase
- Reduce compensatory gait patterns
- Minimise risk of falls and injury
- Support safe and efficient mobility

Additionally, it is recommended that the existing [e.g., Left AFO] be repaired and retained for occasional use where increased mobility or flexibility is required.

5. Expected Outcomes

Provision of the recommended orthoses is expected to:

- Improve gait efficiency and safety
- Increase independence in daily mobility
- Reduce fatigue and risk of secondary complications
- Support participation in home, school, and community environments

6. NDIS Criteria Alignment

The requested supports are considered:

- Reasonable and necessary to achieve functional goals
- Directly related to the participant's disability
- Evidence-based and clinically justified
- Cost-effective, as they reduce the need for higher-level supports

7. Ongoing Needs and Review

Children and individuals with neurological conditions require periodic reassessment due to growth, changes in muscle tone, range of motion, and interventions such as Botox. These factors may affect orthotic fit and function over time.

8. Conclusion

Based on clinical assessment, it is my professional opinion that the provision of [Requested Support] is essential to support [Participant Name]'s safety, mobility, and functional independence.

Please do not hesitate to contact me should further information be required.

Tips for immediate application

It is good to use this template like this:

• Customize to suit the situation

Switch between SAFO / AFO / KAFO, etc. Apply

directly to adults (ALS, Stroke) • Money-making Point (Important)

Provide to customers like this:

Basic: Organize existing documents “only”

Premium: Create a new version based on this template • Tips for taking it to the next level

Adding one sentence increases the approval rate:

“Without this support, the participant is at increased risk of falls and functional decline.”

If you want

Versions optimized for ALS, Stroke, and CP respectively

“Planner: A Stronger Wording Version for Persuasion”

A version containing only sentences that actually get approved easily

I'll also create an even more powerful practical template like this.

Are there any side jobs I can do without special skills?

Yes, if the criterion is “without special skills,” the key is a low barrier to entry, the ability to start immediately, and time flexibility. I will select and summarize only the ones that are realistically feasible based on Sydney.

1. Super Simple (Can Start Immediately) •

Online Research / Survey Product

Testing, Survey Participation

platform:

Pureprofile

Octopus Group

Income: $50–$200 per month

“pocket money level” (not a lot of money)

• Data entry / Simple copy/paste tasks

platform:

Upwork

Earnings: $15–25/hr. It's decent if done consistently.

2. Items at Home (Recommended) ÿÿ Selling

Second-hand (Most Realistic) Organizing

Unused Items Kids'

Supplies, Appliances, Furniture

platform:

Facebook Marketplace

Gumtree

Profit: Varies by case ($100–$500 possible at once)

Pros: No risk / Instant cash conversion

ÿÿ Simple Resale (Small Scale)

Kmart, Daiso Items ÿ Resale: Selling Small

Quantities of Korean Snacks

Earnings: $200–$1,000 per month (depending on effort)

If you do this consistently, it can grow quite a bit.

3. Things possible if you just have time ÿÿ Babysitting (available at home) in small groups through acquaintances or communities

platform:

Juggle Street

$25–35/hr

It is much more advantageous to have a Working With Children Check.

ÿÿ Pet Care / Pet Sitting: Dog

boarding (at home)

platform:

Mad Paws

$30–80 per day

It's popular because it can be done at home

4. Very Simple Service ÿÿ

House Organizing / Cleaning (Small Scale) Start via a Referral

$30–50/hr

No skills required, instead consistency is important

Machine Translated by Google

If the criteria are "no technology + home-centric":

- 1st Priority: Second-hand sales + resale
- 2nd Priority: Pet sitting
- 3rd Priority: Simple data processing

Important Practical Advice:

Surveys/Click tasks ÿ Low return on time. What really makes money is "dealing with people + products." Start small ÿ Expand based on response.

I'll plan it specifically for you, tailored exactly like this.

Where can I find data entry and simple work?

That's a good question.

For data entry and simple tasks, it's pretty much all about "where to find it." I'll just outline the practical routes for you.

- 1. The most reliable place (where actual work comes in) ÿÿ

Global freelance platform

Upwork
Fiverr

Search like this: "data

entry" "admin
assistant"

"excel data entry" "copy
paste job"

characteristic

There is plenty of work (really a lot), but there is competition. Initial rates are low ($10~20/hr starting level).

Tip:
Emphasizing "speed + accuracy" leads to hiring success.

ÿÿ Australian Local Job Sites (Important)

SEEK

Indeed

search keywords

"data entry"
"remote admin"
"work from home admin"
"medical admin" (recommended)

characteristic

requires some "experience/trust"

2. Hidden Gem Route (Low Competition)

☞ Facebook Group / Community "Sydney

Jobs"

"Korean in Sydney"

"NDIS Jobs Australia"

Here

"data entry help needed"

"admin assistant wanted"

Posts like this come up often.

merit:

Low competition,

immediate contact

available ☞ Korean community (Highly recommended)

A place with really many opportunities

Why are Korean

cafes, KakaoTalk open chats,

and church networks

good? There are many business owners who find English

burdensome, so they want to outsource Excel, invoice, and document organization. There is almost no competition.

yes:

"Looking for someone to organize Excel"

"Looking for someone to help with simple admin tasks"

3. Direct Company Support (Stable Type)

Part-time WFH available

Medical Clinic

NDIS provider small business

method:

Contact directly via email

"remote admin support available"

This works surprisingly well.

☞ Caution (Important)

Make sure to avoid this:

☞ "Pay sign-up and we'll give you work"

☞ "$500 guaranteed per day" ☞

Strangely easy high income

It is 99% a scam.

Realistic Starting Route (Recommended)

If it's your first time, do this:

STEP 1

Received 1-2 small jobs on Upwork

STEP 2

Posting to Facebook / Korean Community at the same time

STEP 3

Make at least one loyal customer

Points that are particularly advantageous to you

Looking at the current situation:

NDIS / Medical experience available

So rather than just "data entry":

It is much more advantageous to go into medical administration or NDIS administration.
